FROM WOMAN'S POINT OF VIEW

Unquestionably a consumptive has a better chance for regaining health in a high, dry abiding place than in places where the air is damp and raw, but certain common-sense rules must be obeyed in any climate or the dread disease will never lose its hold. To send a man or woman away from home and family to keep up the fight without hourly encouragement is unnecessarily cruel, for tuberculosis has been cured in climates which were not most favorable for cures.

I am almost certain that if I found symptoms of the disease in my own system I would take up a permanent abode in a dry climate known for its curative powers. I hope that I would not have to go into exile alone. If I did not have the means to carry me to my chosen destination, I would fight disease where I am, fight it with fresh air, a nourishing diet, and all the sleep and rest that I could manage. First of all, the person afflicted with consumption must save vitality and add to the store on every possible occasion. Food must be studied with view to its building power, and must be taken often to counteract the ravages of the disease.

The main feature of the treatment is fresh air. If it is not possible to have an outdoor sleeping-room, there can usually be found some room in the house where the windows can be thrown wide open in all kinds of weather, and there the patient, properly protected, should spend all sleeping hours. But it is in prevention rather than cure that the hope of stamping out the disease lies. Living must be adapted to health, at present health flourishes as best it may under living conditions which we know to be wrong.

There is something in hardening the system from babyhood, nothing in the least bit cruel, but a course that really makes for comfort. Women who are accustomed to an outdoor life will not submit to stuffy, overheated rooms. Children that are kept in the air from babyhood are proof against changes of weather and free from small ailments. They must be properly clothed, of course. Man or woman converted to fresh air generally becomes a radical in the matter, but I have never seen one who was not better in health and comfort for the change.

In my mind's eye I can see some of you shudder when I mention cold water for an eye-opening in the morning. I used to do it, too, until I came to know the fine effects of a cold sponging, winter and summer. As my liking for cold water increased my fondness for hot baths waned. I do not seem to be able to bear hot water now. Cold baths, open windows, and an exposed throat have made head colds and sore throats mere memories. It cost me something in self-denial to give up fur collars and warm neckpieces, but I have almost forgotten how they felt; I certainly do not miss them. I never did much in the walking line, but I manage to secure a good supply of fresh air every day.

TRANSFER PATTERNS.

(Upon receipt of this pattern, ordered on coupon below, place the rough or glazed side of pattern down on material to be stamped, then press hot flat-iron on the back or smooth side of the pattern. Be careful not to let pattern slip.)

Paris Transfer Patterns Nos. 1005-1007

Old English style of letter 'R', 1005 for marking table linen, towels, or napkins, etc. 1 1/2 inches high. This letter should be placed at one end of a towel, directly in the center, and about an inch to an inch and a half above the hem, while if used on a napkin it should be placed in one corner. The two letters 1007 are to be used for marking handkerchiefs and these should be placed across one corner. They may also be used for marking cover-covers, cushions or combination garments if desired, and may be worked over and over with white or colored mercerized cotton, according to taste.

Price of each pattern (1 dozen of same letter), 10 cents.

Carbolic Salve. Make best carbolic salve for bruises, cuts, or burns, by mixing one teaspoonful of vaseline to four drops of carbolic acid.

The Pagenant Passes. I saw a crowd on either hand, As at brilliant cavalcade; Within their midst I took my stand To view the glory and gold; I saw the fire, I saw the flag, I saw the blood, I saw the glory and gold; I saw the fire, I saw the flag, I saw the blood, I saw the glory and gold.

I saw a crowd on either hand, And felt them on my martyred feet.

MORNING CHIT-CHAT.

Ruth Cameron.

Across the street from me a pretty little drama is enacted regularly each Sunday afternoon. At just about 3 o'clock a nice looking young man walks rapidly up the garden path and bounds up the steps of the house opposite.

But quickly as he goes, the door is always opened before he reaches the top step by some one who has evidently been watching for him.

Before the door closes again I often see him stoop down and kiss a little gray-haired lady who opened it for him.

No, he isn't her son. No, he isn't her nephew. He isn't any relative at all.

He is simply the only one of her son's friends who still goes to the home where they all used to have such jolly times before the boy died.

Most of the others never came after the boy went. Some of them came once or twice.

If this boy ceased to come I think she would feel as if the last link that connected her with the youthful happiness and life of the dear past, had gone.

Is it in your power to give any lonesome father and mother such happiness?

Quite as important as good music and a good caterer for the success of a wedding reception are some definitely appointed "mixers."

At every wedding reception there are of course two distinct groups—his friends and hers. And quite frequently these two groups spend the rest of the evening after they have examined the presents and the bride and enjoyed the "cats" in standing off and glaring helplessly at each other.

The jolliness of the jolliest wedding reception I ever attended, the bride told me afterward she secured by definitely requesting half a dozen of her young friends who were more or less acquainted in both camps to make it their duty to see that every one met every one else.

Perhaps you can't have as expensive a caterer or orchestra or as elaborate decorations as you would like, but you can make your wedding reception much more jolly and friendly than those affairs usually are by making such an arrangement.

I don't often give recipes in this column, but in honor of Thanksgiving Day I am going to break my rule.

I know of a sauce for Thanksgiving dinner that you will relish with your turkey even more than the world-famed cranberry sauce.

And that sauce is the knowledge that some one who wouldn't otherwise know the difference between Thanksgiving and other days is having some kind of a Thanksgiving dinner through you.

You can find a some one easily enough—the woman who scrubs your office doors, your newsboy or bootblack, the washerwoman and her inevitable ten children—indeed there are all too many of that kind of some ones.

Surely you've got enough to be thankful for to make you want to help some one else be thankful.

And such a good sauce.

Don't just say I'm preaching, but try it and see if some one else's Thanksgiving dinner isn't just the best sauce your Thanksgiving dinner ever had.

GIRLS' ONE-PIECE DRESS.

Paris Pattern No. 3087

All Seams Allowed.

This smart though simple little model would be excellent for school wear, developed in dark blue serge or mohair. It is also suitable for the washable fabrics, such as pique, duck, galatea and the checked ginghams. A removable shield fits in the low-cut front, which laps in double-breasted style, closing with bone buttons. The belt, which may be of leather or of the material, is slipped through straps at the under-arm seam. The pattern is in 5 sizes, 4 to 12 years. For a girl of 8 years the dress will require 4 1/2 yards of material 21 inches wide, 3 1/2 yards 27 inches wide, 2 1/2 yards 36 inches wide or 2 1/4 yards 42 inches wide.

CHILDREN'S SHOES.

From the Buffalo Express.

Do you know that few children's shoes are properly fitted?

A child does not know enough to tell anything about them, except that they are too tight.

There are other faults in shoes than tightness.

They may be a good enough shape as shoes, but not the shape of the small foot which they are intended to protect.

Ill-fitting shoes are responsible for many a childish ail.

Unreasonable fatigue, bad carriage, nervousness and pains in the limbs are all traceable to this cause.

Never let a child wear shoes that are uncomfortable if it can possibly be avoided.

Nice for the Baby.

From the New Haven Register.

Nice for Mr. Baby when the frosty weather comes are the "elnderdown overcoats."

They are really bags of elnderdown, with a hood-like attachment, into which baby is slipped when taken out in his carriage for an airing.

They are loose and quite comfortable, and button up about the neck in such a way that only the tiny face is exposed to Jack Frost.

ADDS NEAT SUM TO TREASURY

Isabel Ball Flag Association Holds Penny Sock Social.

Mrs. Annie E. Hoagland, President of Organization, Presented with Pin by Mrs. Ball.

Isabel Worrell Ball Flag Association, always alive to live up to the spirit of its motto, "Keep the flag flying," held a penny sock social in G. A. R. Hall last evening, besides being a success from a patriotic-social standpoint, added a neat sum to the treasury of the association. There was a large attendance.

Mrs. Annie E. Hoagland, president of the association, presided. After a solo, "I Had a Thousand Lives to Live," by Maurice P. Fitzgerald, tenor of St. Anthony's choir, with Miss May Hay as accompanist, little Miss Mamie Hazer appeared in costume in a song and dance. Miss Annie Butler, captain of John Lozano Club, sang "The Star-Spangled Banner." Another patriotic recitation, this time by Miss Ford, was followed by vocal duet by Misses Ella and Ruth Baldwin. The musical programme was closed with a song and dance by Miss Lily Smithson.

Mrs. Hoagland presented Col. John McElroy as guest of honor, the next commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, and those present heartily endorsed the candidacy of the soldier-editor. Col. McElroy addressed the gathering briefly, as did Col. Edwin Holbrook. A pleasant feature of the evening's entertainment was the presentation of a pin to Mrs. Hoagland, president of the Flag Association. The presentation was made by Mrs. Isabel Worrell Ball, whose name the organization bears. Mrs. Ball brought the pin from Salt Lake City as a memento of the encampment held there. By special request, Mrs. Ball recited "Your Flag and My Flag." At the conclusion of the programme refreshments were served.

NOVEMBER DANCE HELD.

Banquet Hall of Washington Eagles

Scene of Social Success.

The November dance of Washington Aerie, No. 125, Fraternal Order of Eagles, was held last night at the clubhouse of the organization, Sixth and E streets northwest, in the large banquet hall. In the rear of the hall two large American flags were draped, in the center of which was placed a fine specimen of an American eagle, a work of art from the taxidermist, with wings outstretched and beak and talons ready for the fray.

There was a large turnout of the younger members, and the attendance of maidens and matrons, richly attired, made the gathering a brilliant social success. The dance card provided for twenty numbers. A section of the United States Marine Band Orchestra, under the leadership of Director Demarco, a member of the aerie, furnished the music. An elaborate buffet lunch was served in the rathskeller.

The committee having the dance in charge were: Reception—Harry Winger, chairman; A. S. Morgan, Fred Warner, C. Baker, and H. Isaac; Floor—L. B. Hays, chairman; George R. Hays, secretary; Carl Hoffman, J. H. Brock, Ed. Venable, C. G. Volk, Dr. A. A. Masella, Morris Wolf, N. W. Nicholas, and L. Wright; Refreshments—H. M. Weber, chairman; A. A. Auth, A. Wedlock, C. Hensley, and D. Marx; E. J. Schlichte, president, and Simon Doenges, secretary and treasurer of a large corporation of Connelville, Pa., in the city on business, were special guests.

Notice to Our Readers.

We wish to call the attention of every reader of The Washington Herald to the advertisement of Dr. Hoeser's Catarrh Remedy, which appears in this issue. Dr. J. W. Blosser, 261 Walton street, Atlanta, Ga., the discoverer and proprietor, is a man of such character that his claims for the remedy and his promises may be relied upon in every particular.

As he offers absolutely free a trial sample of his Catarrh Remedy, it is certainly well worth the while of every sufferer to write him and give the remedy a trial, at least to this extent. It is evident that unless the remedy was a good one he could not afford to make this offer.

CONVENTION OPENS FRIDAY.

Educational Men Will Assemble at the New Willard Hotel.

The twenty-third annual convention of the Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools of the Middle States and Maryland will be held at the New Willard Hotel, Friday and Saturday, under the auspices of the universities and schools of this city. An interesting educational and social programme for the entertainment of the 60 delegates has been arranged.

Commissioner Macfarland and Elmer E. Brown, United States Commissioner of Education, will deliver addresses of welcome at the first session, at 10:30 o'clock Friday morning, and President James D. Moffat will make the response.

Among well-known educators who will read papers are Clarence F. Birdseye, of New York; President Joseph Swain, of Swarthmore College; Commissioner Brown and Prof. Edward F. Buchner, Johns Hopkins University; President Henry S. Pritchett, Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching; Prof. Clarence G. Child, University of Pennsylvania; and Theodore C. Mitchell, Boys' High School of Brooklyn, N. Y.

A reception will be given the delegates by the trustees of the Corcoran Gallery of Art Friday evening.

At the afternoon session on Saturday election of officers will be held.

MUST CLEAR LOT OF DEBRIS.

Capt. Boyle Finds No Snakes Under Street Material.

That snakes infest a vacant lot in Florida avenue, between North Capitol and First streets, is the complaint received by the Commissioners from Henry T. Houck, a resident of that neighborhood. He declares so much concrete and torn up street material have been thrown on this lot that it swarms with snakes.

An investigation was ordered, and Capt. Boyle, of the Eighth precinct, made an inspection of the premises, but found no snakes. Engineer of Highways Hunt said there was no rational reason to suppose this street material could be a cause for the existence of snakes. He ordered, however, that the lot be cleared of debris.

Town Fair in Glen Echo.

A town fair will be held at Glen Echo, Md., beginning to-day, and continuing until and inclusive of Friday. Interesting features are planned for each night. To-night a band concert is the principal feature on the programme. Supper and dancing will follow. A euchre party will be held to-morrow night, a masquerade Thursday night, and a waltz contest Friday night. Prizes will be awarded for each event.
